Board of Assessors

The Gill Board of Assessors is working on several projects which continue the process toward the finalization of assessment of values for interim Fiscal Year 2018.

Fiscal year 2019 is also our focus as DCR applications are reviewed and liens are created to assign use to vacant land throughout the town. The liens will be filed at the Registry of Deeds by January 1, 2018 to establish land value on these properties.

It is with regret that we have accepted the resignation of Nancy Griswold. Nancy was an assessor for the Town of Gill for 10 years. We thank her for her work on the Gill Board of Assessors.

The Board of Assessors meets alternate Wednesday evenings at 5:30 PM. If you are interested in being on the Board, please contact the Board of Assessors office. An interim appointment can be made as an opportunity to learn more about the position before running as a candidate at the 2018 election next May.

2018 GMEF Annual Gala
A Tribute to the Music of John Denver featuring Jim Curry & his band

On Saturday, April 28, 2018, at 7 PM tribute artist Jim Curry, whose voice was heard in the CBS-TV movie Take Me Home: The John Denver Story, will make a rare New England appearance at the Gill-Montague Education Fund Annual Gala. Jim’s uncanny ability to mirror John’s voice and clean-cut look takes you back to the time when “Rocky Mountain High” “Sunshine” “Calypso” and “Annie’s Song” topped the charts, and his popular music had the heartfelt message of caring for the earth and caring for each other.

“Jim Curry has kept alive for me how it was playing with John. Jim has stayed true to John’s music and vision. It is a pleasure working with Jim and Anne Curry.”

Celebrate Gill’s 225th anniversary! In 2018 the Town of Gill will celebrate its 225th anniversary. Originally included within the plantation of Deerfield, then divided off as part of Greenfield in 1753, the Town of Gill was incorporated as a separate entity in 1793. The land that was to become Gill had been allotted by the Deerfield Proprietors as early as 1736, though according to Ralph M. Stoughton’s History of the Town of Gill, allotments were taken up and houses were built at that early date. The first documented settler was John Munn who arrived in 1742 and was followed by several other families during the 1750s and 1760s. In 1775 about fifty families were living in what was to become Gill.

The town center consists of an 18th century mill site, 19th and early 20th century buildings and outbuildings in the Federal, Greek Revival, Queen Anne and Colonial Revival styles. Two war memorials face the green on the south. Together these resources represent Gill’s residential, commercial, religious, educational, government buildings and commemorative monuments, thereby constituting the town’s Center. Clapboard-sided, wood frame buildings dominate, while a masonry library adds diversity to the Village’s building materials. During the Federal period (1776-1830), the Center grew considerably with light industry and commerce. In 1794 Samuel Janes settled and began his saw and grist mill on Woodward’s Brook near its outlet into the Connecticut River. The Center also had a potash works and blacksmith shop, a general store in 1801-03, a tannery in 1814, a schoolhouse, more than one tavern, a post office, and roads were laid out to enclose the green. - Taken from the forms filed with Massachusetts Historical Commission to nominate the Center of Gill to the National Register of Historic Places.

Gill Historical Collection to Re-open in 2018. The collection in the Riverside Municipal Building will re-open in 2018 with new displays and renovations. The Gill Historical Commission is also planning displays in a variety of locations during the anniversary year and several celebratory events. Watch for upcoming details!

Great Falls Battlefield Forum

Kevin McBride, lead researcher on the Great Falls Battlefield project, has recently written this update. “This is a quick update on the survey in the Factory Hollow area. In the interim report I reported that after several days of surveying in the Factory Hollow area we had not found anything. That all changed yesterday [August 26]. We picked up the route of retreat identified by the recovery of 45 musket balls in an area we refer to as “The Valley.” It is a fairly steep swale oriented north/south with steep slopes to the west and east that act a bit like a funnel. The swale empties out onto a flat terrace where we found four musket balls in June. Assuming the Horse Tie-Down Area is still on the west side of the Fall River the pattern of musket balls may point to it. It seems incredulous that all of the fighting we have documented between the Wagon Wheel restaurant and the Valley is associated with the twenty English soldiers who lagged behind at the CT River after the village attack, but it is possible. If so, they must have taken a lot of casualties. The 270 yard stretch between the Fall River and The Valley will be extremely difficult to survey given the amount of iron in the area from factories and other structures. In the two days we spent in that area, we did not recover a single 17th century object. Given that we now know the corridor, we can focus on that area and hope for the best. As it looks now, we will be in the Factory Hollow area for a few more days and continue to “chase” the musket ball distribution to the north, hoping it will lead to the Horse Tie-Down Area.”

Editor’s note – there is a bumper crop of acorns and maple helicopters in our yards this fall, and with this bounty comes squirrels and chipmunks with bulging cheeks. This delightful and wise poem was written by a Gill resident in 1892, showing that some parts of life here have stayed exactly as they have ever been.
To A Red Squirrel
Barking At Me While Passing Through A Wood

Good conscience! what can be the matter
To call forth such an awful clatter!
Dost think that I am come to scatter
Salt on thy tail?
About thy head and ears to patter
The leaden hail?

You don’t insinuate, I hope,
I’m some defaulter on the slope,
Or some poor brain-bewildered mope
Whom you can hector,
One thing is sure, -- there’s no “soft soap”
About your lecture.

Just stop awhile your saucy din,
And think about the heinous sin
Of judging people, kith nor kin,
Before you know them;
If thoughts are in your squirrel skin,
Then you may show them.

How many, blest with reason’s light,
Have passed wrong judgment at first sight
And poured unwittingly their spite
Where least deserved,
And fawned on those who from the right
Have basely swerved!

With lies, poor Kit, I will not cheat thee;
The time has been when thus to meet me
Were to meet death: but now I’ll treat thee
Just as one should,
That oft hereafter I may greet thee
Here in the wood.

You seem to feel quite safe; -- you are;
I would not harm of thee a hair;
But I’ve a word or two to spare
By way of stricture:
Of impudence thou art a rare
And striking picture!

Take my advice; don’t imitate
The human race at such a rate!
Your consequence may e’en be great,
Though one must doubt it:
For man, like thee, may storm and prate,
Yet be without it.

Could he who speaks for Bunkum stand
And hear thee rate and reprimand!
His frothy speeches sagely planned,
You’d plainly show him;
He fills with nonsense all the land, --
You fill my poem.
